Proposal deadline: January 6, 2020

The New England Conference of Music Theorists (NECMT) is pleased to announce its thirty-fifth annual meeting, which will be held April 24–25, 2020, at Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut. Proposals are solicited on any topic related to music theory or analysis. Presentations will be thirty minutes, with ten minutes for discussion. The meeting will coincide with a symposium honoring Patrick McCreless on the occasion of his retirement, with a plenary session of papers commissioned for the event taking place on Saturday afternoon.

All submissions must be electronic and will include three separate components:

1. The proposal itself, with a maximum length of 750 words (excluding bibliography and examples), and with no more than two pages for examples and bibliography. Proposals on any music-theoretical or analytical topic are welcome; papers on traditionally under-represented repertoires (including jazz and world musics) are especially encouraged. Proposals must include the title of the paper but should contain no identification of the author. References to the author's own work must occur in the third person.
2. An abstract of 250 words or less, suitable for publication.
3. In the body of your email, please provide your name, address, phone number, email address, academic affiliation, the title of your proposal, and any special equipment or arrangements required. For more information, contact Christopher White at the address shown below.

Please format submissions as a text or document file (e.g., doc, docx, txt). Submissions must be received no later than January 6, 2020. Email submissions to Christopher White at cwmwhite@umass.edu with the subject line "NECMT Abstract."
